

ROMEYNE ROBERT AND UGUCCIONE SORBELLO
FOUNDATION

Ruggero Ranieri holds a degree in Letters and Philosophy from the University of Florence and a PhD from the European University Institute in Fiesole.

After an academic career in the UK (1987–2004), he taught at the University of Padua and several Italian universities.

He is also the author and editor of numerous books, articles, and essays in English and Italian on contemporary history and Italian and European economic history.

Founder and President of the Romeyne Robert and Uguccione Sorbello Foundation and of the Fondazione Ranieri di Sorbello ETS, he oversees cultural programs, historic preservation, and museum management, including Palazzo Sorbello and the Pozzo Etrusco.